

Is the world of legal information alien to you? Do you find legal reference questions difficult, challenging, or downright terrifying? Look no further!

RIG presents:

Legal Reference in non-Law Libraries

With Cheryl Nyberg and Nancy McMurrer

Learn about the major sources of legal authority (cases, laws, and regulations), free Internet sources, and strategies for handling legal reference questions. Two experienced law librarians will demystify the world of legal information by explaining the types of legal authority and their relationships. We will explore reliable free Internet sources and demonstrate effective search techniques. With skills practice and audience participation, we will discuss strategies for successful reference interviews. We will focus on U.S. federal and Washington State law, with brief references to comparable sources for the laws of other U.S. states. Registrants will be asked to give examples of questions and situations ahead of time so that presenters can tailor the workshop to the needs of participants.

Cheryl Nyberg and Nancy McMurrer are reference librarians at University of Washington Gallagher Law Library.
